

Forms

The administrative office of the court system is responsible for drafting and updating court forms. Administration publishes a Statewide Forms Catalog and a Localized Forms Catalog that are updated monthly. Administration also publishes a forms book that consists of three binders. Forms are available in a number of locations and formats. The forms catalogs indicate where and in what format court forms are available.

Click here to access instructions for distributing court forms and general information about certain forms.

Updates to Forms

Administration periodically sends out supplements to update the forms book. The supplement will include revised forms and an insertion guide which instructs you where the form should be inserted. It may also instruct you to remove forms which are no longer used.

Ordering Forms and Requesting New Forms

If you want to request a new form or modify an existing form, complete a Form Request, ADM-500 and send it along with a copy of your new or revised form to the court forms attorney.

Family Law Self-Help Center Forms

The Family Law Self-Help Center (FLSHC) creates and updates forms for self-represented parties to use in divorce and child custody cases. These forms are designated with “SHC-“ and a form number in the bottom right hand corner. SHC forms are available on the FLSHC website. The FLSHC also creates and updates forms for self-represented parties to use in civil appeals from the Superior Court to the Supreme Court. These forms are designated with “SHS-AP” and a form number in the bottom right hand corner. These appeals forms are available on the self-help appeals website.

